

Hey... you! Kid of the future. I need your help.

I have heard that you are a pretty smart kid so I would like you to do something for me.

How would you like to be help your classmates to learn even more about pre-historic Britain?

Sounds great but I don't know anything about the prehistoric age. How do I find out?

Your Mission

Use your independence to be a History detective.

You will need to think of a line of enquiry to investigate. A line of enquiry is a question you want to ask. It could be 'how did pre-historic people travel?' or 'What did pre-historic people wear?'

Whatever line of enquiry you choose, we would like you to present your research in an interesting way. This is up to you. Be as creative as you wish but make sure you present your work to a very high standard.

Also, remember that this will be presented to your classmates and they'll be keen to ask you questions about your enquiry. Make sure you're an expert in the topic you have chosen so you can share all the knowledge you have gained during your research.

Good luck!

Tips

Research the correct period in time (Stone Age to Iron Age).

Remember to use accurate dates in your work.

You could draw and label key artefacts, or even make them.

Remember to use a range of sources like books, the internet or the library.

When is my home learning due in?

Please hand in your home learning by Friday 7th February 2025.
